

Ben Levin is a senior at Yale College, where he has been an climate justice activist since his first year. He has recently been helping expand the New Haven chapter of the Sunrise Movement, a national movement of young people to stop climate change and create millions of good jobs in the process.